EGYPT. Mohammed Tewfik died yesterday afternoon om pneumonia following suddenly upon slight attack of influenza.

The following biographical notice is taken from

"Men of the Time": Tewfik Pacha (Mohammed Tewfik), Khedive of Egypt. was born Nov. 19, 1852, being the eldest son of the late Khedive Iswail. He succeeded to the Viceroyalty of Egypt by a decree of the Ottoman Empire, June 25, 1879, upon the forced abdication of his father, and received the investiture on Aug. 14. He is the sixth ruler of Egyp in the dynasty of Mohammed Ali Pacha, who was appointed Vali or Governor in 1806, and who in 1841 got the Sultan, with the Fire Great Powers of: Europe, to settle the hereditary principality in his own family. Ali had rebelled against the Sullan, encouraged by the French Government of that day, and had made himself absolute master of the country. He was succeeded in 1848 by his son. after his elevation. The next ruler, Abbas Pachs, a son of Mohammed Ali's second son of Mohammed Ali Pacha, succeded on the death of Abbas: but Said also died in 1863. whereupon his nephew. At 8.10 a.m. to our utter astonishment we could not see her, but saw semething black a little on the starboard bow, which was taken to be the steamer her. I steered for that position as near as dare, fearing that we might strike her masts or hull. Had the Chief Officer sloft, but neither lus could see anything of the vessel in question nor the boats or wrackage sither. I am confident that we passed within a mile or less of her position. It was blowing hard at the time and a very heavy sea was running. In fact, it was the heaviest; sea I have seen this season. At 8.35 a.m. set course for Hongkong and arrived here at 7.30 p.m. The steamer was schooner rigged, with straight stem, white deck or bridgehouse, and had forevard sloft. If such happily is the case hope may be entertained that life has been saved. Thereis however, a grave doubt, and it is certain that if any human being was on board at. the time of the foundering nothing could possibly have saved him. . . It is a strange feature that no restige of anything connected with the vessel could be found near the spot, but she appears to have sunk like a stone with a suddenness which, dangerously situated as she was, must have been unexpected. It seems us though the heavy sea caused her cargo to shift, giving her the heavy list:to port. In this position she would be un manageable, and the hatches being probably broken in and the fires extinguished she would be utterly at the mercy of the waves Speculation is busy as to the identity of the Il-futed vessel. It is believed that the Namehow Capt. Lee was auchored off Cupshi Point, 15 niles south of Breaker Point, and some fears are entertained for her. > CHEFOO, 2nd Junuary. A most sad calamity has ushered in the New fear. About 7 o'clock on Thursday evening the steamer Marie, from Hongkong with a general cargo-principally sugar and old ironstruck on "Stick-up Rock" (so it is reported) and being backed off, at muse began to founder. Plie captain, first and second officers were on the bridge at the time, and the vessel's head was immediately turned towards the s ore and an attempt made to b sch her! She was rub upou what is known locally as the 40 Li-beach, where she now lies in about four fathours of water, her funnel, masts, and the point of her istem being the only barts visible. The night was intensely cold, the wind was high and a pasty ben was running while a thick fog enveloped the strendy dark night with a more gloomy shroud.

> The story is a whort one; three boats were lowered with great dinger and difficulty, and he entire crow, drokehed by the from a mray and bounded by the biting blast, scrambled into them as best they could; and putting off rom the now fast sinking ship, essayed to reach the shore. One boat succeeded in doing so without mishap; another boat was capsized among the breakers, but fortunately, the occupants managed to reach the beach and drag Remisiles up on dry land. In what direction the third boat steered after she left the steamer's side, and how it happened that she capsized, will ogver be known, for her crew are strewit clong the beach, their frozen bedies mangled by the aruel rooks and their fixed and agonised expressious bearing awesom, testimony of their sad and terrible fate. The boat contained the second officer, the hird edgineer, and nine Chinese, sailors and firewen, all of whom have perished. I learn that there is no possible hope of saving the ship. though, should the weather continue fine, some I the cargo may perhaps be kalved. SHAORHING,

The latest news from the disturbed district vest of Heing-beion is that the Shaoshing Prenot and the Heigh-ching; have arrived on the scene. They found the District Magistrate in hot chase after the leaders of the gang, be hereag heard that they were in a certain case in the hills adjacent. The two chiefs are named Cheng Ah-san, and Chang Ah-sze. The uncle of the former is a literary; l'cantinto. Châ Lauvia enjoined on him to go post-baste in search f and seize his naphaw Chieng Alesan. The anolo called together the strongest and bravest f the clan, but they fulled to find their clansman. The Hsien himself went in person, and m foot, but the birds had flown, and the 'ed time in which to seize them, and offered a housand dollars' reward for the capture of one The uncle who shot his naphew and was the chief cause of this formidable disturbance, was behended the other day at Hangchow. They have seized so many of the bandits and dotors as to be under the necessity of putting some in the strong accestral halls, securely ironed of course, and under guards. The prison of Hsing being is too small to hold them all securely. th'ien Ah-pah (who was beheaded as mentioned above), and have beaten him terribly, hoping o get from him the whereabouts of the leaders. All the people say that he is a simple, honest man, and of course knows no more than the Magistrate himself where they are. An offer of a thousand dollars' reward for the capture of another nephem of the man just belieaded has been made by the Hsien and rentry. The Hsien declares that he will give the money out of his own salary, and "will not oat his words." This man's name is Heing King-fang. He was seized under the administration of the previous. Magistrate (of this district was put in the drum-tower, but bribed his guard and escaped. Soon after his escape, he and his followers mat a man with his daughter. on their way to a large idelatrous procession. Haing King-fang being smitten with the girl asked the man what relation he sustained to the damsel. He answered that he was her father. King-fung asked-"Is she married?"

" No." was the roply. "Will you let me be middle man in getting husband for her?' The father asked- Who is the man you have ?" " Heing King-fang, of T'ai-p'ing," The father had heard the name of "Hsing Kingfang "long ago, but had never seen the man. So he indignantly and rashly answered, "I have only one daughter; but if I had a thousand I would not give one of them to that robber." Hsing King-fang suppressed his anger, and aftor interchanging a few judifferent sentences, went his way with his men. Not many days Waters, and helped to put on 33 runs before the after this, Heing King fang and a few of his followers, seizing a favourable opportunity. Ellis got 25 (not out) but had considerable luck, went and seized this girl and took her off to his home, none daring to open their months at his conduct. On the contrary, some few of influence and well-to-do, sent presents and congratulated him on getting such a pice damsel for his wife. While they were eating Yuensang took down nighteen ponies, comprise. Punjom Mining Co. and Mr. J. F. Lemm, disastrously, Taylor again getting 4 wickets for with some friends, in a state of frenzy came 22 runs. Five wickets were down for 10 runs, rushing on the scene, and throwing himself frantically on the gound declared he wou'd die there and then if they did not give him his daughter thack Hsing King fang had anticipated something of this sort, so he enlisted before-hand a clever go-between, who with honeyed words and fluttoring speech prevailed on the father to accept $40 as betrethal money, and sign his name to the papers or contract of marriage. The father thought with himself that his daughter having already been disgraced, he could not mend matters by being obstinate, so the best thing was to agree to their proposals. After a few days, Hsing King fang sent the girl demanded from the distructed father the usual dowry; given by farmers to their daughters on receiving the bothrothal money. The rascal got just what he wanted. His $40 were not given for nothing. The blackguard frightened the with ont of the poor parents, no one daring to interfere; By: the law of China this young weman cannot become the legal wife of such an outlaw as Haing King lang to the magistrate has summoned the father to present a legal form of indictment against Hsing King-tangand areward of a thousand dollars is offered by the Lauyia and the gentry for the capture of this villain. The very latest hows is that they have suized the mother of one of the leaders, and have beaten her on her bare back. This is an abominable practice. The poor woman knows no more than her termenters about the hiding place of her son. Again, I hear they have cought: as man who was an assistant of Ah-seen's and Ah-sze's, but what they have done to him I have not yet heard. The Heien has to attend to the literary examinations just now on. The Shaoheing Hsieh-ching is himself with some soldiers stays ing in the disturbed district, but I fear, so far as the capture of Ah san and Ah-ze is concerned that he is staving in vain. - Mercury corres-
